1. Qualitative Information on Quarterly Consolidated Financial Performance

(1) Explanation of Results of Operations

In the first quarter of the current fiscal year (July 1 to September 30, 2023), according to the Bank of Japan Tankan released on October 2, 2023, the business sentiment (DI: the difference between the percentages of companies that described conditions as favorable or unfavorable) of large manufacturing companies improved by four points from the June survey to plus nine. The recovery of production continued as restrictions on supplies of goods declined. Business sentiment at large non-manufacturing companies continued to improve as economic activity rebounds after the pandemic and foreign tourists return to Japan.

Unemployment in Japan was 2.7% in August 2023, the same as in July. The seasonally adjusted August jobs-to-applicants ratio was 1.29, also the same as in July. Due to slow growth of real wages, many people have second jobs or are seeking different jobs. However, companies in the manufacturing and construction sectors are holding down employment as the high cost of materials impacts their earnings.

During the first quarter, the Hirayama Group achieved higher sales in all business segments mainly by meeting the demand for personnel as production recovered following the pandemic and by providing in-sourcing and temp staff services. Earnings were generally as planned despite the negative effects of higher expenses resulting from the acquisition and consolidation in the first quarter of Hirayama GL (formerly Bridgestone Green Landscape Co., Ltd.) and of strategic expenses for business sites, a larger workforce and more recruiting activities for more growth of the Hirayama Group.

Net sales increased 10.6% year-on-year to 8,538 million yen and operating profit decreased 23.2% to 218 million yen due to substantial investments mainly involving human resources. Ordinary profit decreased 23.2% to 240 million yen, which includes foreign exchange gains of 18 million yen. Profit attributable to owners of parent decreased 21.3% to 157 million yen after income taxes of 92 million yen.

Business segment performance was as follows.

1) In-sourcing & temp staffing services

Sales and earnings in this segment were supported by the recovery of production in the automobile, agricultural equipment and small construction machinery sectors as the restrictions on supplies of parts in the previous fiscal year largely ended. Performance in the food and medical equipment sectors remained strong. Demand continued to be very strong in the logistics, aerospace, hotel, retail and convenience store sectors. One reason is the large number of foreign tourists in Japan. As a result, there were additional orders for temp staffing from existing customers and a large volume of orders from new customers. In the semiconductor sector, which is a priority market for growth, there were new orders as sales activities continued to expand. First quarter results of operations in this segment include the newly consolidated subsidiary Hirayama GL.

Earnings benefited from the strong performances of the automobile and medical equipment sectors and of service-sector subsidiaries, where earnings began to improve in the previous fiscal year. There were higher expenses due to the inclusion of newly consolidated subsidiary Hirayama GL. In addition, there was an increase in expenses involving training and the growth of the workforce. For more growth, people were assigned to new projects that have high rates in areas where there is substantial demand at customers for workers and training programs to give people high-end skills were expanded. Recruiting expenditures were high and new business sites and a new training center were established. Furthermore, the number of people involved with recruiting and training activities increased. Despite these higher expenses, first quarter earnings were generally as planned.

New college graduates who were hired in 2023 are now making a contribution to the stability of manufacturing operations. However, the recruiting environment for people with previous work experience is more difficult than in the previous fiscal year because of the recovery of the service sector. During the first quarter, the Hirayama Group used cost-effective advertising on regional TV stations and other media, social networking services, information about prospective employees from current employees and other measures to continue strengthening recruiting operations. These activities are also aimed at improving the public perception of the Hirayama Group. Furthermore, the diversification of recruiting channels and other actions are being used to hire more people while holding down recruiting expenses.

Segment sales in the first quarter increased 9.6% year-on-year to 6,851 million yen and segment profit decreased 21.1% to 351 million yen.

2) Engineer placement services

Orders received by the Hirayama Group recovered with the upturn occurring primarily for embedded software development engineers for electronic equipment, semiconductor engineers and engineers specializing in production equipment technologies. Demand for engineers was supported by a recovery in expenditures based on a medium to long-term perspective by some major manufacturers that use the group's engineer placement services. Training center programs to further upgrade skills of experienced personnel, customized training to meet specific customer requirements and other measures facilitated the placement of people in projects with high rates, which contributed to sales growth. To maintain a high number of people on assignments, this business reinforced career counseling services and established a techno counseling service. These measures have been effective at increasing employee retention and will continue to be a priority.

Recruiting activities in this business were increased due to the outlook for long-term growth. The number of 2024 new graduates to be hired is generally as planned. However, recruiting engineers with previous work experience remains challenging because of the persistent shortage of engineers. Numerous measures are being used to attract more people to the Hirayama Group, such as the addition of new recruiting channels and a redesign of the corporate website to improve Hirayama's corporate image.

Segment earnings increased because of higher sales and the efficient use of selling, general and administrative expenses.

Segment sales increased 14.1% year-on-year to 721 million yen and segment profit increased 182.5% to 43 million yen.

3) Overseas operations

In Thailand, the primary location of operations outside Japan, the manufacturing production index increased 7.7% from one year earlier in the third quarter of 2022, decreased 6.0% in the fourth quarter of 2022, decreased 3.7% in the first quarter of 2023 and decreased 5.5% in the second quarter of 2023, and continued to weaken. The number of temporary staffing employees of the Hirayama Group in Thailand as of June 2023 decreased 1.9% from one year earlier to 3,048, but sales were higher due to an increase in the number of personnel placed at high-profit clients. The cost of sales and selling, general and administrative expenses increased in part because of the end of measures to reduce social insurance premium rates that were used in the previous fiscal year and expenses associated with employee income tax refunds.

Segment sales increased 18.0% year-on-year to 727 million yen and segment profit increased 25.1% to 24 million yen.

Note: There is a three-month delay in the disclosure of results of operations in the overseas operations segment. The sales and earnings reported for the first quarter of the fiscal year ending in June 2024 are for overseas operations in the period from April to June 2023.

4) Others

The performance of this segment was supported by an increase in orders for Genba Kaizen consulting and training programs in Japan and other countries. Sales and earnings were also supported by activities for the development of AI solutions for improving productivity and by an increase in factory start-up consultation orders from companies that are bringing manufacturing operations back to Japan.

Segment earnings increased because of higher earnings in the employment management support business for foreign nationals in Japan. This business is placing an increasing number of engineers and interns from other countries in jobs in Japan.

Segment sales increased 8.3% year-on-year to 238 million yen and segment profit increased 58.8% to 44 million yen.

(2) Explanation of Financial Position

Total assets increased 788 million yen from the end of the previous fiscal year to 10,903 million yen at the end of the first quarter of the current fiscal year.

Current assets increased 623 million yen to 9,263 million yen. This was mainly due to increases in cash and deposits of 195 million yen, notes and accounts receivable-trade of 258 million yen, income taxes refund receivable of 143 million yen and other current assets of 24 million yen.

Non-current assets increased 165 million yen to 1,640 million yen. This was mainly attributable to increases in property, plant and equipment of 53 million yen, intangible assets of 5 million yen and investments and other assets of 106 million yen.

Total liabilities increased 872 million yen to 7,000 million yen.

Current liabilities increased 674 million yen to 4,891 million yen. This was mainly attributable to increases in accounts payable-other of 35 million yen, provision for bonuses of 268 million yen and deposits received and other current liabilities of 576 million yen. These increases were partially offset by decreases in income taxes payable of 148 million yen, accrued consumption taxes of 49 million yen and current portion of long-term borrowings of 8 million yen.

Non-current liabilities increased 198 million yen to 2,108 million yen. This was mainly due to an increase in retirement benefit liability of 235 million yen, which is partially offset by a decrease in long-term borrowings of 49 million yen.

Net assets decreased 83 million yen to 3,903 million yen. The main factors include dividends paid of 185 million yen and purchase of treasury shares of 55 million yen, which were partially offset by booking of profit attributable to owners of parent of 157 million yen.

(3) Explanation of Consolidated Earnings Forecast and Other Forward-looking Statements

In the revised outlook for the global economy announced on October 10, 2023 by the International Monetary Fund (IMF), the forecast for 2023 economic growth in Japan is 2.0%, up from 1.4% in the previous forecast. The 2024 growth forecast for Japan is unchanged at 1.0%. The forecast for the U.S. economy is growth of 2.1% in 2023, up from the previous forecast of 1.8%, and 1.5% in 2024, up from the previous forecast of 1.0%. In its outlook for the Asian economy announced on September 20, the Asian Development Bank increased its 2023 growth forecast for Thailand from 3.3% to 3.5% and left the 2024 forecast of 3.7% unchanged.

The outlook for the Hirayama Group is positive. This outlook is based on the expectation for a large volume of orders as manufacturing in Japan recovers and for a contribution to manufacturing as newly hired new college graduates receive job assignments. We will continue to recruit a large number of people and provide education and other training for jobs requiring specialized skills, such as facility maintenance and welding. These activities are expected to increase the number of people we can send to client companies for technical tasks that demand highly trained workers.

Based on the above, sales and earnings in the first quarter were mostly in line with the initial plan. Consequently, there are no revisions to the forecast that was announced on August 14, 2023 for the fiscal year ending in June 2024.

* Forecasts are based on information currently available to Hirayama Holdings. Actual performance may differ from these forecasts for a number of reasons.
